Guidelines for a European Roma Youth Action Plan

Proposed by the conference participants

Introduction

This document is the result of the Roma Youth Conference organised by the Council of Europe at the European Youth Centre in Strasbourg from 27 to 30 September 2011. The conference brought together Roma youth leaders and youth workers, representatives of Roma non-governmental organisations and of international organisations active in promoting Roma youth participation and in combating discrimination affecting Roma across Europe. The conference served as an open consultation with Roma young people about a two-year Roma Youth Action Plan led by the Council of Europe by identifying priorities, main areas of action and the principles underlying the preparation and implementation of such a plan.

Participants in the conference both reflected on the main areas of the Action Plan and worked in smaller groups on principles, objectives and activities for each area.

These guidelines are, in essence, the result of working groups and plenary discussions during the conference and reflect the aspirations of the Roma youth representatives and young people attending the conference. Although thought initially in a two-year framework, these guidelines reflect long and medium-term aims and objectives and, as such, should be regularly reviewed and updated.

The Roma Youth Action Plan herein referred should reflect the practical commitments of the Council of Europe and of other partners interested in contributing to the implementation of the plan. The plan should thus be reviewed and updated annually and potentially expand beyond the first bi-annual budget and programme of the Council of Europe (2012-2013).

These guidelines were developed as a result of the needs and challenges experienced by young Roma in Europe today and are an expression of their legitimate aspirations as citizens and holders of universal human rights. They should be understood within the framework of human rights instruments, including the European Convention on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, the European Social Charter, the Framework Convention on the Protection of National Minorities and the European Union Charter of Fundamental Rights. The guidelines, and the resulting plan of action, are also understood as contributing to the application, to Roma young people, of the principles and objectives of, inter alia:

- The Strasbourg Declaration on Roma
- The Final Declaration of the Council of Europe Summit of Mayors on Roma
- The Agenda 2020 on the youth policy of the Council of Europe
- The Plan of Action on Roma of the Organisation for Security and Cooperation in Europe
- The Ten Common Basic Principles for Roma Inclusion of the European Commission
- The EU Directives on non-discrimination (Race Equality Directive 2000/43 and the Framework Directive 2000/78)
- The European Framework for National Roma Integration Strategies

1. Concerns and issues

Growing up in Europe today is, for many young people, a difficult process. To the natural challenges of gaining personal autonomy which are common to many young people, most societies in Europe experience financial and economic crises which have a particular effect on young people and their opportunities for developing “knowledge, skills and competencies to play a full part in all aspects of society”¹. Roma young people face additional hurdles, starting with being denied “the right to be young”. Caught in between expectations from their families and communities and the stigmatisation from the majority societies, Roma young people have a hard time in asserting their rights, their identity and belonging, their lives. Other general problems faced by Roma communities are often reflected in the transition to adulthood of many young Roma, namely poverty and lack of opportunities within the community and when going outside the community, difficulties in accessing social human rights.

The situation can be direr for Roma girls and young women and for invisible groups among Roma youth like, as discussed in the conference, young people with disabilities, Lesbian, Gay, Bi-sexual and Transsexual, migrants and undocumented young people.

In a context where many European societies are becoming more closed rather than open, the room for diversity and difference is narrowing and “the Other” is increasingly regarded as a threat than as a fellow citizen and human being. This is the ground in which Romaphobia and Antigypsyism breed and upon which many children and young people grow and learn prejudice and ethnocentrism.

This is intolerable for the Roma children and young people concerned and for the societies of which they are citizens. Democracy can not be built on discrimination and exclusion. Roma young people also have a contribution to make for the development of their societies and they ought to be part of solutions, not of problems.

2. Roma youth specific issues that the Action Plan should respond to

External challenges

- Limited access to political participation and absence from relevant decision making bodies and processes
- Limited or no participation in mainstream youth events and initiatives
- Lack of political will to have a more Roma youth inclusive approach into the mainstream youth programs
- Roma youth issues are absent from related mainstream legislation and policies and from youth research studies at national and international level
- Lack of solid (or any) funding for youth activities; where they exist they often exclude Roma youth organisations due to their weakness and specificities
- Absence of effective positive measures which would allow to create any improvement in equality of opportunities
- Lack of de-segregated data and statistics making Roma youth twice invisible
- Roma youth activities are often pilot project based lacking strategic focus to link to sustainable policies
- Antigypsyism and high levels of discrimination having a deep impact on self-esteem and self-confidence and leading to further stigmatisation and exclusion of Roma young people and their families
- Lack of access to essential goods and services and of the possibility to enjoy the same opportunities and chances as other young people

- Growing up in residential and school segregated neighbourhoods, depriving them of being part of mainstream society
- Multiple forms of discrimination (including intra-community discrimination) of particularly vulnerable groups such as women, Lesbian, Gay, Bi-sexual and Trans-gender youth, HIV infected, migrants and undocumented young people
- A generally negative portrayal of Roma in mainstream media and online which reinforces prejudices, stereotypes and racialised attitudes
- Lack of information in the media, in school books or other means concerning Roma culture, traditions, and life of the young Roma
- Misconceptions and contempt about the life style of Travellers
- Great barriers in access to quality education, often even to education at all
- Widespread practice of disproportionately placing Roma children and youngsters in special schools for mentally retarded people
- Low levels of education and training among Roma youth making them not competitive in the labour market
- Low levels of access to high school, even lower in university-level education
- High levels of poverty in which Roma children and young people grow-up
- Lack of birth certificates, identity documents papers and citizenship status making Roma invisible to the administration and denying them the possibility to exert their rights.

Internal challenges

- Weak Roma youth organisations and lack of Roma youth structures
- Poor coordination and communication between existing structures (Roma and non-Roma youth; Roma youth and general Roma movements, organisations and responsible authorities)
- Lack of information and education about citizenship and human rights
- Low level of mobilisation making Roma youth movements invisible
- Low levels of Roma youth voluntarism and participation in mainstream youth organisations and projects
- Limited capacity to apply and manage for project funding
- Self-loathing and self-segregation as a result of discrimination and exclusion leading young Roma to hide their ethnic and cultural identity
- Early and arranged marriages pose barriers for young people, especially for young women, to continue their education or pursue a professional career;
- Disproportionate placement of Roma children and youngsters in care institutions; many of them lose their ethnic identity
- Domestic violence affecting young girls and women
- Difficult relations between Roma youth and elder Roma leaders
- Tensions between different Roma groups and communities limit cooperation between youth organizations
- Lack of youth role models within the Roma communities.

3. Purpose and values underlying the Roma Youth Action Plan

The Roma Youth Action Plan is set out in order to:

- a) Support the creation in Europe of an environment for Roma children and youth to grow free from discrimination, confident about their future perspectives and appreciating their plural cultural backgrounds and affiliations as young people, as Roma, as citizens of their countries and as active Europeans.
- b) Change prejudices and stereotypical attitudes against Roma
- c) Support and develop the participation and autonomy of Roma youth at European and national levels

- g) Adopt an integrated approach in all Roma youth related policies
- h) Promote the respect and development of Roma identity and culture
- i) Support active citizenship and participation of young Roma in all aspects of society.

The Roma Youth Action Plan should be understood as a framework or platform of action within which various stakeholders and actors at European and national level –including Roma youth organisations and networks, international organisations, institutions and initiatives – place their respective activities, projects and programmes with, for and by Roma youth for the purposes outlined above.

The Roma Youth Action plan and its activities should be based upon the following principles and values:

- a) Participation and consultation of Roma youth and Roma youth organisations
- b) Roma youth involvement in youth policy design, implementation and evaluation
- c) Comprehensive multi-sectoral approaches respecting the role of each partner
- d) Transparency in the planning, delivery and evaluation of results

- g) Respect for and promotion of Roma identity, culture and language
- h) Linking Roma youth projects to the situation of Roma communities in Europe and the need for systemic changes to address structural forms of discrimination
- i) Human-rights based approaches to the challenges faced by young Roma and the empowerment of Roma youth leaders in addressing and finding responses to them (including human rights education as part of capacity-building projects)

- j) Explicit but not exclusive, have a strong focus on Roma, but not excluding non-Roma who face similar situations
- k) Anti-discrimination approach: eradicate ongoing discrimination, compensate for past discrimination and eliminate future discrimination
- l) Make use of disaggregated data by ethnicity in the planning, implementation and evaluation of policies and programmes.
